

200 LIVES LOST AS REBEL SPANISH CRUISER GOES DOWN

Identity is Still Obscure, But It is Believed to Be Either Balares or Canaria

SET AFIRE BY LOYALISTS

Four Hundred of Estimated 800 Aboard Reported Picked Up

BARCELONA, Mar. 7.—Two hundred lives were lost when a 10,000-ton Rebel Spanish cruiser, apparently the crack Balares, was set afire by Loyalist warships and airplanes in the greatest naval battle since the World War, it was stated here today.

Identity of the destroyed vessel remained obscure, but it was either the Balares or its sister ship the Canaria. Spanish government officials here expressed the belief it was the former. Some hours after the attack, government observers aboard the destroyer Libertad wireless to Barcelona that the ship was still above the waves.

The British destroyers, Boreas and Kempenfelt, picked up 400 of the estimated 200 men aboard the cruiser. Many leaped overboard when the cruiser was struck by a torpedo and aerial bombs, and lost their lives.

BARCELONA, Mar. 7.—(INS)—The greatest naval battle since the World War ended today with a black film of oil on the calm Mediterranean marking the grave of the cruiser Balares, pride of the Spanish Insurgents.

As 15 warships blazed with their heaviest guns and squadrons of planes dropped bombs, the 10,000-ton cruiser was set afire and a yawning hole ripped in her hull by a torpedo launched from the Loyalist destroyer Lepanto.

The British destroyers Boreas and Kempenfelt took off 400 of the estimated 765 aboard the stricken Balares. But Loyalist government reports in Barcelona said many of the crew leaped overboard and the insurgent war craft made frantic efforts, as they retreated, to pick them up.

Amid the confusion of battle, Loyalist war planes, informed of the conflict, darted out from Cartagena and pelleted the withdrawing insurgent fleet.

They reported that the other cruiser (presumably the Canarias) was hit by one bomb and that another settled the fate of the Balares.

Casualties on the lost cruiser were believed high.

One British sailor—the ninth Briton to lose his life in the Spanish civil war—was killed, and three were slightly wounded when an aerial bomb burst near the Boreas.

The naval battle marked a daring and apparently successful attempt by the Loyalists to break the insurgent blockade of the Mediterranean sea-coast—a blockade which has turned back several American and other foreign cargo vessels.

John Shaffer Dies In Hulmeville at Age of 82

HULMEVILLE, Mar. 7.—An aged and a long-time resident died shortly after midnight in the person of John Shaffer. Death occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Madison Force, Sr., Fairview avenue, where Mr. Shaffer had resided for many years.

Several months ago Mr. Shaffer had one of his lower limbs amputated after tetanus developed, as the result of stepping on a nail. He apparently made a splendid recovery for a man of his age, and a short time later was able to return here from the Philadelphia hospital where the operation was performed. Further trouble developed in the limb a few weeks ago, and death occurred early this morning.

The Rev. Albert F. Fischer, Jr., vicar of Grace Episcopal Church, will conduct the service at the funeral home of Charles Haeffer, Main street, Wednesday at two p. m. Burial is to be in Beechwood Cemetery. Friends may call Tuesday evening.

Tells of Lenin and Stalin Plot

Moscow, Mar. 7.—A fifty-two year old woman revolutionist stood before the judge in Soviet Russia's treason trial today, and told calmly of a plot to kill Lenin and Stalin. She was Varvara Nikolaevna Yakovleva, former Finance Commissar of the Republic of Russia, and the first woman to hold an official position in the Soviet regime.

Mademoiselle Yakovleva laid the plot at the door of Nikolai Bukhran, once-famous editor, now one of twenty-one former high officials facing death for their admissions of a "Trotskyist conspiracy."

"I was a member of Bukhran's group in 1918," she said. "In that year I attended a meeting of his followers to which a resolution was presented proposing the arrest of Lenin and Stalin."

Mansfield, Ohio, Mar. 7.—Jay N. Dirlam, 55, died here today of a heart ailment without having learned that two of his children, Mary Louise, 19, and J. Tracy Dirlam, 21, have been missing aboard an eastbound TWA airliner since last Tuesday.

NIPPON WAR FEVER HITS DANCE HALLS AND SALONS

Contemplated Ban Due To Japanese Belief "Frivolities" Are Menacing War Spirit

BEAUTY SALONS HIT

(Note: War measures—Dance bands must be silenced, beauty shops closed! Not war office caprices, those are positive steps that loom for Japan in her conflict with China. Great changes that the struggle is forcing on tradition-bound Japan are further detailed in the following article, second of a series of three.)

By James R. Young
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

TOKYO, Mar. 7.—(INS)—Make-up, lip-stick, cosmetics and permanent waves today are considered by the police morals department as menacing the war spirit!

An actual ban or severe restrictions on beauty salons is being contemplated along with abolition of dance halls as war measures. The new-found pulchritude of girls enjoying beauty culture adapted from European and American methods is officially disliked.

The prospective bitter aftermath of war, the spreading sickness and disease throughout the country and the decline in national nourishment has caused the newly created Ministry of Health to mobilize its forces in creating measures to fight an increase in tuberculosis and venereal diseases.

To prevent a decline in the nourishment of children a special committee is shortly launching a movement for rationalization of food during the emergency. The bringing up of better children into the late teens will provide future and better cannon fodder.

The emergency has resulted in compulsory education for boys from 12 to 19, not now attending higher schools, who, under the plan, will receive a supplementary education. A separate scheme for girls is being worked out.

BURN $8,000 MORTGAGE OF NEWTOWN EDIFICE

Rev. J. A. Long Strikes Match; Gifts Given by Two Church Members

DINNER IS TENDERED

NEWTOWN, Mar. 7.—The burning of an $8,000 mortgage, which clears Newtown Presbyterian Church of debt, was the feature of the morning service yesterday.

The pastor, the Rev. Jacob Avery Long, burned the mortgage on a silver tray in the chancel, prior to the service of communion and communion meditation.

Witnessing with others of the congregation the burning of the mortgage were Mrs. Edward H. Buckman and Horace B. Hogeland, whose gifts made possible the clearance of the debt.

A testimonial dinner was given on Wednesday evening to Mrs. Buckman and Mr. Hogeland in appreciation of their generous gifts which made it possible to pay the mortgage of $8,000 on the Newtown Presbyterian Church.

The building of the beautiful structure at the corner of Chancellor street and Washington avenue was begun in the Spring of 1933 and completed on March 4, 1934, at a cost of $50,000. Funds were contributed by all the members. Requests by former members also assisted in the reduction of the debt.

Mrs. Buckman and Mr. Hogeland made generous contributions at the beginning and frequently during the past four years, until the debt was reduced to $8,000. Last week these two loyal members made contributions which made it possible to clear the congregation of all of the debt.

This is the fourth edifice erected by the Presbyterians here. The first building was erected in 1736 on Swamp road. Thirty years later the church on Sycamore street was built. This was used for 120 years when a chapel was built on the site of the new church.

Increased activity after the Rev. J. Avery Long assumed the pastorate made it necessary to erect a larger church. Testimonials were given at the dinner by Leroy Subers, J. M. Vanartsdalen, Mrs. W. Arthur Roberts, B. C. Patterson, Mrs. Cora Ogley, Marsden Strathie, Miss Lillian Chew, Mrs. Roland Porter, Mrs. Franklin Foust, Mrs. J. A. Long and Mrs. C. V. Cornell.

After the many expressions of appreciation for these gifts a motion picture, "Five Years Ago," was shown, and a quartet composed of Dr. A. J. Strathie, Marsden Strathie, Elmer Price and R. Stanley Hellerman rendered several selections. Group singing was also a feature of the affair. One hundred and seventy persons attended the dinner.

Lockard Given Respite

Harrisburg, Mar. 7.—Another respite this time for seven weeks, was granted Roy Lockard, Altoona WPA worker, doomed to die in Pennsylvania's electric chair for the slaying of three-year-old "Sonny" Karmendi.

Governor George J. Earle's office announced that Lockard's execution date has been deferred from March 14 to the week beginning May 2. The respite was granted on recommendation of the State Board of Pardons, so that it might hear arguments on application for clemency for Lockard, on April 20.

Mrs. Cooper also announced that the Lower Merion and Narberth Council of Republican Women are sponsoring a trip to Washington, D. C., March 22nd. Reservations are being made with Mrs. Cooper.

The party will leave the 30th street station in Philadelphia, of the Pennsylvania R. R. at 8:30 o'clock.

The women will be the guests of Congressman and Mrs. Ditter at a tea at the Mayflower Hotel, following sightseeing trips, a visit to the Capitol and the Supreme Court.

TO REMOVE TRACKS OFF MORRISVILLE STREET

Expect Work To Start Within The Next Week Or Two

WILL FILL UP THE HOLES

MORRISVILLE, Mar. 7.—It is thought that the removal of the trolley tracks from East Bridge street, between Delmor and Pennsylvania avenues, will not get underway until Spring. This is in accordance with an announcement made by W. W. Deacon, assistant superintendent of the State Highway Department, at a special meeting of council.

Deacon said, however, that the State department would immediately send a force of men into Morrisville to fill up the some 200-odd holes provided the borough authorities furnished to the State a release of the trolley area and the old rails. Steps will be taken immediately to comply with the State's request so that repairs may be made on this deplorable roadway.

Following a conference a month ago between the State authorities and representatives of Morrisville, a notice was sent to the officials of the old trolley company to remove the rails within 30 days and it was believed that as soon as this was done the State would send its men here to replace the old trolley area. The old rails were sold last week by the trolley company to a Trentonian and he in turn engaged another contractor to take the rails out of the street. This work was to have been begun this morning but now the new request from the State changes the whole matter and it will be necessary for the local authorities to begin negotiations all over again.

Mrs. Cooper also announced that the Lower Merion and Narberth Council of Republican Women are sponsoring a trip to Washington, D. C., March 22nd. Reservations are being made with Mrs. Cooper.

The party will leave the 30th street station in Philadelphia, of the Pennsylvania R. R. at 8:30 o'clock.

On the outcome, rests the answer to whether Europe faces peace or a major war in the near future.

Fog In The White House

Washington, Mar. 5. IN A time such as this, with so many men out of work, business on its belly and apprehension general, few persons would carry partisanship or personal feeling to the point of not cordially supporting the President in any constructive move he made. For one thing it would be wicked; for another it would be stupid.

BUT, how can that be done? It is foolish not to face facts, and the truth is it is impossible to reconstructive move he made. For one thing it would be wicked; for another it would be stupid.

Comedy Given By Students Proves To Be A Success

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Mar. 7.—There are still reverberations of laughter from the presentation of the three-act comedy, "Loose Moments," which was presented as the annual high school play of the Bensalem Township school in the school auditorium here Friday evening.

The young thespians played to a capacity house which heartily enjoyed the foibles of those "paying guests" who stayed just long enough at the Bartlett home to become quite entangled in each other's affairs.

The role of Mary Bartlett, who managed the tourist home was played by Frances Stuhltrager. She won the hearts of the audience with her spontaneity and charm.

Victor Swadlow, essaying the male lead, portrayed the naive Ralph Merkes with an understanding which made a marked impression. Gladys Reed gave an outstanding performance as the sophisticated New York widow, Constance Trowbridge.

Much of the comedy was provided by Ethel Machette as Lena Tarbutton and Alvin Marshall as her philandering husband, Gus. These two formed an excellent team whose comedy was very satisfying.

Marion Dill, through her excellent interpretation of the role of Mrs. Gandle, raised an otherwise mediocre role to one of major importance.

Bruce Hamilton, scion of a New York family, was convincingly portrayed by Eugene Snyder. Equally clever was Sara Jane White's interpretation of the man-hunting spinster, Sophie Tuttle. No small part of the play's success was due to the sincere performances of Marion Funk, James Hutton, Edna Mae Vansant and Edith Lewis whose work in minor roles left nothing to be desired.

The production was very well staged and there was a total absence of that hesitance singular to most amateur productions. Miss Jane Kohler and Mr. Axel Kleinsorg are to be congratulated on the fine production.

Besides those who had parts in the play there were other students who worked on committees to make the affair a complete success. These included:

Business—Miss A. Klink, faculty manager; C. Zuvich, student manager; J. Stackhouse, assistant student manager.

Publicity—E. Ausherg, H. Eddleman, R. Kuehy.

Poster—W. Getz, R. MacFarland.

Property—L. Morrison, W. Getz, M. Sullivan.

Stage—Mr. A. McCloskey, Mr. D. Cherry, H. Cassile, F. Schweitzer.

Make-up—Miss O. Sargent, Miss C. Withers, E. Tyler, D. Kratz.

Ushers—Members of the Usher Squad.

Prompter—A. Smith.

Program—H. Brownback, N. Barclay.

CORN MOVES OUTWARD

Export of 17,000,000 bushels of corn in the first four months of the present marketing season represents a dramatic reversal of last year's figures. The drought of 1936 made it necessary for the United States in the comparable months of the fall and winter of that year to bring 24,000,000 bushels from other lands to relieve the home scarcity. So far the present outward movement of corn has topped all records since 1928-29, and its continuance promises to eclipse figures made earlier in the decade.

This favorable turn-about for one of our principal crops was not due solely to better weather in the Western plains. It was also the result of lack of rainfall in competing countries, such as the Argentine. Any ever-normal grain plan which attempts to wrestle with effects of the weather has a world proposition on its hands.

Prices may be thrown for a loss or scarcity result, quite as much from clouds beyond our political horizons as within them. Control plans for the United States crops have always this elusive element with which to deal, that the weather of both hemispheres may not conduct itself accordingly.

Factors of foreign exchange also make a difference, as the Department of Agriculture remarks that countries needing our corn have not the wherewithal to buy. Weather and the state of the currency in international trade give a dubious prospect for any domestic experiment in crop control.

CO-ED'S CHERRY PIE

The national pick-backing championship has been won by an Indiana co-ed, Mary E. Wien of Lafayette, who is a young and, of course, pretty student attending Purdue, when she is not too busy turning out crisp, brown, meaty cherry pies. Miss Wien receives, in addition to the pick-backing odds, the sum of $100 and a trip to Washington to swap housekeeping notes with Mrs. Roosevelt.

Miss Wien's interests may run more to flour than to face powder, more to domestic science than to singing; but, as an outstanding co-ed, she presents a no less arresting figure.

With the current economic trend she seems the more formidable type of collegiate enchantress with her social insight into the fact that men are just boys grown up, the way to cater to their hearts being still the traditional stomach route.
The college girl who invites her boy friend in to see how well she can cook, promises to be more likely to get her man than the impractical co-ed who prefers invitations to go out to show how expertly she can pitch a little woe.

The outdoor amusement season resumes shortly, and any Americans still in China may return to our midst and stand up in roller coasters.

They used to call her fast if she used a little talcum; now if she leaves off all make-up, catty friends say she is overdoing it.

The constant strain of thinking about war is broken ever and anon by some diplomat arising to say that same is unthinkable.

The years slip up on a man and he doesn't realize he is old till some pretty girl is polite to him.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By Courier Staff Member

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issued dated at Bristol Aug. 24, 1876. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

Dr. H. Pursell, druggist at Mill and Cedar, has paid out over $1,500 in silver coin since the first of May.

Madison Bollean has sold his property on the Trenton road, above New-portville, which he recently purchased of Caleb N. Taylor, for $2,000.

A large excursion went to "Ocean Beach" yesterday, 32 passenger cars being filled. The occasion was the offering of building lots at public sale.
Some 40 lots were sold at prices ranging from $250 to $500.

The Bucks County Lyceum Convention held at Beaumont's Deer Park last Saturday was largely attended, over 3000 tickets being sold. The programme was an excellent one, the music splendid and everybody was delighted with the occasion.
The trees are being pretty generally trimmed in compliance with the ordinance requiring the branches to be topped off 14 feet above the pavement.
Hereafter the lights from the gas lamps on the corners will not have such a hard struggle to make the pathway of the traveller clear.

Two tramps, who were very much intoxicated, and who claimed to be man and wife, were taken charge of last Tuesday night by the officer and transferred from the corner of Mill and Wood streets to the lock-up. The woman was in such a helpless condition from the effects of her potations that a wheelbarrow had to be brought into requisition into which she was placed and wheeled to the town house.
The next morning when the constable unlocked the door he was informed that the woman was dead. A physician was summoned who gave his opinion that the death was caused by strangulation from having slept with her neck across the head of the bunk. The coroner summoned a jury, who having viewed the body adjourned to meet again. The body of the woman was buried in the Potter's field down by the little school house beyond Otters bridge on Wednesday.

DOYLESTOWN—The Farmers' and Mechanics' Institute contemplate holding their regular exhibition on the 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th of October. Many heavy premiums have been offered, and that popular amusement, horse trotting, will it is said, exceed that of any year previous.

Hon. George Lear, attorney general of Pennsylvania, left this place the early part of this week, to spend some time in stumping the State of Ohio for Hayes and Wheeler. Mr. Lear has won for himself an enviable reputation as a public speaker in this state, and we feel confident that the people of the Buckeye state will listen to him with a great deal of interest.

The new depot which has long been wanted in this place is now in a fair way to become a sure thing. The old one is so small that the wants of those who are often required to wait for trains are not provided for. Men are now engaged in filling up the stone quarry lately opened, where the new building will be erected. It is said that the style of this depot will be very similar to the one now at the Old York station on the main line.

HULMEVILLE—The Pacific and Atlantic Company have run a new line through this borough, much to the disapproval of our people. A special meeting of council was called on Monday evening, and a resolution adopted prohibiting the company from passing through the borough unless they establish an office here.

As our people here patronize the new railroad now, it was deemed necessary to have a good road from here to the station, so on Monday afternoon, through the efforts of Mr.
Jesse Webster, a large number of farmers, and others having teams, turned out to haul gravel. There were 14 teams, and a quarter of a mile of the road was gravelled.

Kronman VonElten, the Centennial commissioner from Holland, is busy sketching and painting the scenery along the Neeshamby. He is an artist of ability, and transposes in the winter season these sketches into fine paintings. On being questioned about the value of his paintings, he remarked that he received $200 for a landscape view, size 28x30.

The Great Game of Politics health. He, of course, his friends say, recognizes that this is a business country; firmly believes in the profit system; recognizes that another spending spurge would be perilous; knows that a slump bears most heavily upon the poor, that it is essential to restore confidence. Yet not one concrete thing has been done by him to that end.

In the matter of tax reform the initiative has not come from him, but from Congress, and the zeal in the Senate is much greater than in the White House.

HE HAS ceased even to talk about curtailing expenses and, after having permitted both little and big business men invited to the White House to believe he was in entire accord with their recommendations, has just allowed them to lapse. But that would not be so discouraging if it were not for the nullifying influence of other activities both personal and political.
Outstanding among these is the continuation as intimate advisers of a group of men known to be hostile to the profit system, who urge that it is not worth while to try to revive business, and are confident that they can force him into another spending program.

ANOTHER is his open approval of such grandiose and absurd schemes as Senator Bulkley's eight-billion-dollar "self-liquidating system of super-highways," fortunately buried in the Senate on Thursday by a vote of 38 to 36, with the Administration Senators supporting the bill. Another is White House endorsement of such men as Senator Claude Pepper, of Florida, who, as an Administration spokesman, in his recent New York debate with Mr. Howard Bruce, drenched his audience with the old campaign claptrap about business and business men. The cheapness of his argument was so obvious as to get slight response from his audience. It was rather a mortifying exhibition. Nevertheless, this is the man whose candidacy, against two others, is enthusiastically approved.

ANOTHER is the unprecedented personal activity of the President in promoting the New York Gubernatorial candidacy of Mr. Robert H. Jackson, one of his left-wing advisers, who with the latter Mr.
Licks, recently made a joint attack on business and is eager for further governmental regulation.
Another is the fact that the President is now exerting himself to force through the Departmental Reorganization Bill, which, though diluted, still will greatly enhance his personal power, increase the number of jobholders, provide him with six additional $10,000 secretaries, give him control of the Civil Service, abolish the office of Comptroller General and not save anything at all—this despite the fact that the Brookings Institute and Senator Byrd assert that efficiency can be promoted and at least $100-000,000 annually saved—if economy is desired.

IT WOULD be easy to expand this list of things done by Mr. Roosevelt since January to offset the assurances given his more level-headed advisers, all of which tend to keep business in a state of uncertainty, to freeze capital, paralyze enterprise and deepen the depression. It is a condition which many friends of the President deplore. He cannot get through a Congress, to which sanity has returned, any radical proposal, and he knows it. But on the other hand, neither economy nor stability can be achieved without a White House leadership which is lacking. There isn't strength enough in Congress to do the simple things, such as Mr. Baruch suggested, and which most men there want to do, without the President, and the President will not move in that direction. Instead, he indulges in self-laudatory press conference utterances about the unchanging nature of his "objectives," which the correspondents dutifully note and the newspapers correctly print. Every such conference is an opportunity to proclaim the nobility of his purposes. But in the meantime the nation wallows in the depression and the obvious things the country needs remain undone.

ON SCREENS IN BRISTOL

THE GRAND
A honeymoon island is Hollywood's newest glamour contribution.
Appropriately enough, it is a South Sea island, bordered by a rippling lagoon, shaded by towering palm trees, carpeted by ferns and tropical shrubs.

This ideal lover's retreat is the mythical island of Motu Tonga. It was constructed as an action background for Samuel Goldwyn's "The Hurricane," which comes to the Grand Theatre tonight; adjoins, as in the Charles Nordoff-James Norman Hall story, the larger island of Manukura.
Goldwyn's Manukura is a two-and-a-half acre setting. It has an acre lagoon, native huts, trading post, church and government residency. Motu Tonga, as benefits a honeymoon isle, is uninhabited and is much smaller.
Separated by a high board fence from the Manukura setting, it occupies some 20,000 square feet of the Goldwyn "back lot," and is screened from the public gaze by a vast tent.

The lagoon which laps the shore of Motu Tonga, where Jon Hall and Dorothy Lamour, the "Terangi" and "Marama" of the story, supposedly spend their wedding night, is a tank 100 feet square. The bottom of the tank is rock, giving crystal clarity to the water, which ranges in depth from three feet to six. In the deeper water a full sized outrigger canoe is sunk.

Paramount's new comedy-drama, "True Confession," which opened yesterday winds up behind the eight-ball, in the at the Bristol Theatre, with Carole Lombard, Fred MacMurray and John Barrymore co-starred in the leads.

In the film, Miss Lombard plays a "born liar" married to the most truthful young lawyer in the world. She lies and lies and lies — and finally shape of a charge of first-degree murder! The honesty of her husband, play-after she "confesses" that she is guilty.

Oddities In The News

SALEM, Ore., Mar. 7.—(INS)—If suggestions made in a letter to Secretary of State Snell are adopted, Oregon's new state capitol building will be the "doggiest" in the country.

A Jackson county resident suggested "there should be a 'rest room' for dogs in the basement" of the new capitol. "At the present time," the man wrote, "there is no place in the capitol where visitors may park their dogs while they transact state business."

BEND, Ore., Mar. 7.—(INS)—Fathers! Take a tip from Al Erickson, Bend pharmacist, and examine your son's pockets thoroughly before indulging in any catch-as-catch-can home wrestling bouts.

Erickson said it was not until after he and his 7-year-old son had a pretty rough bout in their home here that he grew curious about some bright, copper-colored objects which fell out of the boy's pockets. He nearly collapsed when he found the "toys" were dynamite caps which the youngster found in an abandoned garage.

URGE BRISTOL HIGH FIVE PLAY AT JENKINTOWN

With the defeat of the Morrisville basketball team Friday night by Jenkintown, when the two clashed on the Lower Merion floor at Ardmore, a number of supporters of the Bristol high basketball team are arguing for a game between Jenkintown and Bristol high.

"Bristol should not have lost that play-off game to Morrisville," says one, "and I still believe that Bristol is the best team. I would like to see a game between Bristol and Jenkintown played on the Ardmore floor, and I feel sure that Bristol would win."

Others claim that the Bristol team plays a very clean game and is better on a larger floor. The game between Bristol and Morrisville was lost through the former's inability to score from the foul line.

The arrangement of a game between Bristol and Jenkintown should be an easy matter, and one which it is believed would attract a capacity crowd, or perhaps a series of three games could be played.

SCHEDULE FIVE BOUTS FOR TRENTON ARMORY

TRENTON, N. J., Mar. 7.—All roads lead to the Trenton Armory for the fistful tonight.

For this evening, Promoter Sammy Perro will present an all-star program of four eight-round bouts and one six, constituting the annual American Legion boxing show, sponsored by Trenton Post, No. 53.

Andre Jessurun, of New York, will meet Dem Wakerlis, Boston Greek, in the eight that will occupy the windup spot on the card. Jessurun and Wakerlis, both top-flight welterweights, have appeared in Trenton rings recently. Both made good showings and built up sizeable followings. Their clash is a "natural" that may bring about a revision of the nation's welterweight rankings, for Jessurun at present is among the "first ten" and Wakerlis isn't.

In the semi-final spot on the legion show will be a return encounter between Larry Mangine, of Trenton, and Mickey Duca, of Paulsboro, N. J. They fought a sizzling scrap at the Trenton Arena last December, and Mangine was awarded the decision. Trenton fans booed the verdict, believing Duca entitled to at least a draw. The faithful soon were clamoring for a rematch, and Perro was quick to arrange it for them.

Two other eight-rounders on the March 7th carnival of sweat will pit Johnny Pastor, of Hightstown, against Joe Duca, of Paulsboro, and Stanley Pontek, of Trenton, against Larry Sealone, of Newark. All four are middleweights, and all four possess knockout punches. Joe Duca is the brother of Mickey.

In a six-round preliminary, which will get the Armory show under way at 8:30 o'clock, Ralph Ivins, unbeaten Jamesburg heavyweight, will tackle Billy O'Brien, of Camden.

Congress Wants Early Adjournment

Washington, Mar. 7.—Driving for early adjournment to give business a "breathing spell," Congressional leaders were agreed today that the only major legislation likely to be passed would be tax, navy, government reorganization and general relief bills. While the House today resumed consideration of the tax bill, the Senate continued debating over the Byrnes bill to reorganize the executive branch of the government.

Murawski, whose car it is claimed struck the machine of Fletcher and then that one driven by Powell, was arrested by private Mitchell on a charge of reckless driving. Considerable damage was done to the three machines. It is claimed.

Slonicky was a passenger in the Murawski machine, and the two young women and Blum were riding with Powell.

tional system, in a country rated with literacy at 98 per cent, aims to give the Empire's youths a practical training that they may contribute directly to national strength. It has been noted that front line soldiers who have completed similar school courses are much superior in all points of efficiency.

The League of Japanese Women's Organizations has inaugurated a patriotic uplift program petitioning the government to prevent women and children working in mines, a campaign to eat unpolished rice, a new emphasis on punctuality in keeping dates and doing feminine chores and encouraging school girls to attend lectures on health and family duties. Polished rice is blamed for beri-beri, bad teeth and other ailments. The campaign wants more beans, meat and vegetables to build better bodies.

The Great Japan Midwives' Society of 20,000 members has joined the ever-growing parade of war-time movements affecting the life of the nation. They want their status recognized by medical authorities.

Official figures show an increase of 50 per cent in living costs since Japan started to underwrite the Manchurian affair. Prices in the past year account for 35 per cent of this rise. Vegetables, rent, rice—which enjoys a government-controlled price—and fish are about the same. But charcoal, which heats every home is so widely used for cooking, meats, woolsens for clothing, medicines, flour, chickens, eggs, fruit and canned goods are higher.

The added demand for goods in connection with expansion of armaments and growth of the nation's productive capacity are responsible for the jump. While the increase has been felt only slightly, experts interviewed on the subject assert that within another four to six months the Japanese people will suffer hardships in meeting ordinary household costs. The interference in importation of many raw materials will shortly affect the supply, demand and price of kitchen necessities.

An attempt by the government to counteract the advance in wholesale and retail prices was effective for a few months. As prices have a serious bearing on the livelihood of the nation, the Cabinet is faced with the important problem of how to adjust rising charges where incomes have remained practically stationary.

On top of all this, income taxes have jumped from 20 per cent for clerks and minor employees to 40 per cent for company managers. Tax notices now carry a Japanese flag as a means to emphasize the amount due is for patriotic motives; that the recipient must not shirk his duty in supporting the cause.

Loyalty, obedience, hard work and thrift could be termed the Japanese household slogan of 1938, which the government in devious methods pours into the women-folk's heads through the radio, the newspapers, magazines, lectures, posters and circulars.

On the entertainment side, the ban on foreign artists has dealt a severe blow to music lovers of the big cities, who in recent years have enjoyed the appearances of several stage headliners.

Just as programs of Tokyo's New Symphony orchestra headed by the Prime Minister's brother, Viscount Hidemaro Kono, were leaning more in the direction of the modern, the war came along and today the fare, if any concerts are permitted at all, must be strictly of a martial nature. Soloists must be certain their warblings are on the patriotic scale.

Such artists as Grace Moore, Alfred Ciril, Pablo Casals, Tito Schipa, and others from abroad have had their tours cancelled.

Piano and violin practice for the young people is on the decline as they turn their attention to home life in making comfort bags and knitting garments for the wounded. Money for musical instruments goes to the popular war chests to aid distressed families.

One source reports phonograph factory production dropped from 10,000 a month, mostly portables, to about a thousand. People just aren't buying. Piano sales are at a standstill. Gramophone records, one of Japan's greatest retail store turnover items, are off 50 per cent. People weary of war tunes but those are the only type permitted by the authorities.

RADIO PATROL

PAT, ON AN INDEFINITE LEAVE OF ABSENCE THROUGH THE GOVERNOR'S INFLUENCE, REPORTS TO "THE BUSTER," WHO HAS RENTED AN OFFICE IN AN INCONSPICUOUS BUILDING IN THE BUSINESS SECTION.

YOU CERTAINLY MUST HAVE SOME PLAN OF ACTION IN MIND. YOU CAN'T CRACK DOWN ON ALL THE RACKETEERS AT ONCE.

I KNOW I CAN'T. I'M STARTING WITH THIS HI-JACKING GAME. THAT'S THE THING THAT'S GOT THE CITY BY THE EARS JUST NOW.

YOU'RE RIGHT.

SEVERAL TRUCK-DRIVERS HAVE BEEN KILLED. TWO, BECAUSE THEY WERE FOOL-HARDY ENOUGH TO PUT UP A FIGHT. THE OTHER, BECAUSE HE WAS BEGINNING TO LEARN TOO MUCH.

BUT WHAT BECOMES OF THE LOOT?

ARE GOING IN FOR TRUCKING?

GOOD!

—AND SO, WITH A RENTED TRUCK, PAT AND "THE BUSTER" ENTER THE TRUCKING BUSINESS.

THAT'S A GOOD IDEA, RAISING THAT MUSTACHE.

YES. AFTER THOSE ATTACKS ON ME, I'M AFRAID SOMEBODY KNOWS ME.
